Special Acts To Provide Diversion At The Rodeo

An undercurrent of activity and elaborate planning is underway in Coleman these days without much fanfare or show. . . . these things will come Friday and Saturday when the Coleman Board of Trade unwraps the 1952 version of a wild west rodeo.

When the horses have gone and the dust has settled, residents of the Crows Nest Pass will have witnessed one of the greatest shows ever produced in this area. . . . thanks to the unheralded work of this association.

Sensing that any show of this calibre is worth showing twice, the committee have set aside two days for the event this year, with a rodeo on both Friday evening and Saturday afternoon. The Mammoth parade complete with Indians, is scheduled for Saturday morning at 10.30 with a carnival in the arena both nights.

Trained cutting horses . . . clowns fighting horses . . . roman riding over automobiles . . . these are thrown in with the thrilling contests between some of the world's greatest cowboys competing for $1500 in cash prizes. If you have found amazement in the abilities of a sheep dog rounding up the herd unassisted, be sure and see the same thing performed by these cutting horses.

Roman riding over an automobile is beyond describing. This spectacular act must be seen to be appreciated. Once you have watched it you will never forget it. Dick and Pauline Pickard, the artists, offer you this amazing feat as well as holding you spell-bound with fancy roping, riding, and comedy numbers.

The tops in clowning is being presented this year when the two hilarious fun men tickle your ribs with their antics and hold you in tension when they tackle the Brahma Bulls. Rave notices from other centres class these two as the tops in entertainment.

The smell of peanuts, hamburgers and hot dogs, the cheering for contestants and sigh of just missing a major win on the crown and anchor are all yours at the rodeo grounds and the arena for these two days. You owe it to yourself and your family to attend this the finest presentation that Coleman has ever offered.

Composer of No. 1 Western Song To Entertain at The Coleman Rodeo

Hod Pharis, composer of "Call of the Mountains" at present number one on the Canadian Western Hit Parade, will take part in the annual Coleman Rodeo.

Mr. Pharis and his wife (nee Audrey Holstead) and young son will be visiting in Coleman during the Rodeo, and Hod has been prevailed upon by the Stampede committee to lend his talent to the western show. It is hoped that he will be featured in the parade Saturday morning and sing a couple of times during the afternoon performance.

Mr. Pharis is not unknown to western fans throughout the province, having been associated with such well known radio shows as C.F.C.N.'s "Old Times" and the "Ray Little Show." Sales on the recording of his popular song is making him well known throughout the U.S.A. and Canada, and the rodeo committee have expressed their pleasure at having such a noted artist for their show.

Broadcast Might Originate In Pass

A nation-wide radio broadcast, which is hoped to emphasize the value of the coal industry may originate from Turtle Mountain, Playgrounds on July 14, under the joint sponsorship of the Coleman, Blainmore and Fernie Boards of Trade.

This broadcast, should it materialize, will be by the noted John Fisher, who has won the name of "Mr. Canada" for his untiring efforts to build Canada equally as strong in its mental state as it is in physical state.

Canada's champion for increased pride and publicity will be the guest of the combined boards and address a supper meeting on that date. Letters have been forwarded him asking that he take the necessary steps to have his address featured on a national hookup.

Mr. Fisher will be the guest of E. R. (Ernie) McFarland, of Lethbridge, and has been informed that those in charge desire that he stress the importance of the coal industry to the nation. West Canadian Collieries at Blainmore have requested that he attend an informal meeting with them during the afternoon, whereby he may see the workings and ask any questions pertaining to the industry. The same day he has been asked to visit Coleman Collieries, where a similar offer will be made.

Further attempts to publicize the district and its produce have been made by asking representatives of Associated Press, Canadian Press and British United Press to attend the address.

Among those attending will be W. C. Whittaker, Commissioner Secretary of the Western Canada Bituminous Coal Operators Association, and Mrs. Whittaker of Calgary. T. G. Ewart, president of the C.N.P. Coal Co. and president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce for the East Kootenay District, and Mrs. Ewart will attend. Mr. Ewart has signified his intentions to introduce the guest speaker, J. A. Brusset, vice-president of West Canadian Collieries will move a vote of thanks from the company and the Blainmore Board of Trade, while Harry Wilton Clark, general manager of Coleman Collieries, is expected to convey the thanks of his company and the Coleman Board.

Special Meeting Enlivens Rodeo Preparations

"It appears that everything that we do for this town must be paid for in dollars and cents. The rodeo was started with an idea to promote civic service and a great many of us are up to our neck in this project . . . doing it for Coleman. If it is to be a money making affair for different individuals, then we should bury it." This is roughly the remarks made by Ray Spillers as he called for all our support for the Coleman Rodeo at the special meeting in the Grand Union Hotel on June 18.

Rodeo secretary J. R. Hill presided over the meeting and was emphatic in his statements that more must be done and in a hurry to assure a harmonious show. A brief regime of the work to this date showed an increased tempo necessary and the assembly settled down to constructive thinking with a result that a great many unfinished items were disposed of.

The annual carnival received a temporary setback when Acme Novelty failed to hold the days of the Coleman show open. Hutt Harris Importing stepped in to fill the breach at the last moment and assured the committee of all equipment for a first class carnival, providing Coleman supplies the booths and personnel. Joe D'Appolonia was appointed Carnival Manager with Orazio Celli chairman in charge of booth construction at the arena. Joe Malanchuk will supervise construction of booths at the grounds and the Grand Union.

Concessions proved the second obstacle that had to be straightened out and came in for considerable discussion: F. Abousafy will serve again this year in the large task of checking stores in and out, while his son Edwin has been appointed concessions manager. All booth operators will receive assistance and be responsible to this manager. Assistance in seeing that supplies flow continuously to the various booths will be given by J. Owen, L. Owen, J. Allen, Jr. and Bobby Park. Following the allotting of booths to Joe Machowski, Joe Kryczka, J. Bayon, A. Tappano, W. Kolyk, W. Ferby, C. Picard and M. Dunford, a list of necessary equipment was made and located.

The meeting was also informed that assistant arena manager J. Wilkie had made a trip to Edmonton and assured the show of stock and feed.

Publicity was found to be well looked after, the P.A. truck having already visited some centres, and more trips planned. P. Dickerson will handle the filming of the show this year, while J. Allen arranges for window advertising. R. Pattinson volunteered to look after a window display for the feature acts of the show.

Parade discussion resulted in C. Picard, of Canada Packers volunteering to contact Blainmore and Bellevue merchants regarding floats.

R. Pattinson came forward a second time to volunteer his service this time in agreeing to contact a work crew to do a lot of necessary work in preparing the grounds. A police patrol will be supplied for the fences by the Polish Combatants Society.

Board of Trade Pres. Urges Full Support

MR. J. R. HILL

The secretary-treasurer of the Coleman Rodeo wants your support in making this the best show in the town's history. Mr. J. R. Hill, our local bank manager, has set an example in community effort. Since Rolly's return to Coleman in 1949 he has established an enviable record with his civic activities. In his second term as president of the Board of Trade he has proved a real booster for Coleman. This is the second year in which he has worked unsparingly as secretary-treasurer of the rodeo, a full job in itself, but when we consider that he is also in charge of the publicity and advertising of the show, then we fully realize the service that Rolly is giving the community. It is only through the efforts of a few men like our bank manager that any worthwhile civic enterprise is possible. Add to the above the presidency of the Lion's Club and an active participation in all community welfare, then it is easily understood why Coleman is fortunate in having such a representative of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Rolly, we admire your tireless energy and drive, we appreciate your sense of humor, and we hope that the success of your current venture with the Coleman Rodeo will be proportional to the time and energy that you have expended for Coleman's Gala Days of 1952.

Federal Mine Minister To Visit Coleman

Hon. George Prudham, Federal Minister for Mines will visit Coleman on July 9, to confer with the top officials of the local mine companies. He will be accompanied by his wife and two daughters, and it is not known at this time just what functions might be held in his honor.

Coleman Board of Trade discussed the matter of Mr. Prudham's call but found that the duration of his visit would make it impossible to have him address them at a meeting.

Safer Approach to Grounds Provided

In the interest of safety, Coleman Board of Trade approached the town council asking them to consider improving that portion of the road that leads to the Coleman Rodeo Grounds. Agreement was reached and work started last week.

In an effort to eliminate the crossing of the main highway, equipment was used to remove obstacles so that cars can follow the road to the curling rink through the underpass, swing left and run parallel to the main highway and turn into the grounds.

Arena Director

HERMAN LINDER

The record of the Arena Director, Herman Linder, is a cross-section of rodeo history. Undoubtedly one of the world's top cowboys, Herman started in the game at twelve years of age and in his day has ridden in all major rodeo events in North America, England and Australia. In 1929 he won the Saddle Bronc Riding and the Bareback Bucking Horse Riding championships at the Calgary Stampede. From 1931 to 1940 he won the Canadian All-round Championship 7 times and the North American All-round Championship five times. He captured the Canadian Saddle Bronc Riding title again in 1934 and again in 1938; the Bareback Bucking Horse Riding championship in 1929, 1934 and 1938; the Wild Steer Riding championship four times from 1934 to 1940. At Sydney, Australia, in 1936 and again in 1938, Herman won the International title. In 1933 he won the world's Bareback Bucking Horse Riding Championship at Madison Square Garden. With a Director of this calibre who knows the rodeo business from the ground up, Coleman spectators are assured of a fast-moving, well regulated show.

Assistant Secretary

R. A. SPILLERS

One of the most diligent and energetic workers in the organization of the Coleman Rodeo Committee, Ray Spillers—assistant secretary—is once again shouldering a large portion of the administrative responsibilities.

His knowledge of contestant's name, addresses and events in which they are most likely to compete, coupled with his experience in doing the preliminary detail work, makes it possible to arrange the whole rodeo events program with scarcely a hitch.

The same unbounded enthusiasm displayed on the ball diamond, volleyball or basketball courts, on the track, with the jumping-standards or on any ice surface, is carried into the Rodeo headquarters and in no time the executive has caught Ray's infectious drive.

Coleman is singularly fortunate in having a citizen who gives so unflinchingly of his time in the interests of the younger and older generation.

On many occasions we have heard—and are likely to hear again the query: "What would we do without Ray Spillers?"

Fortunately for this community, that question has not required any answer.

Very Reverend M. Sopulak D.D. Chancellor of the Greek Uniate Diocese of Western Canada visit Father Oruski for a day last week. The Very Reverend Chancellor, under Bishop Savaryn O.S.B.M.D.D., was making a routine visitation of the parishes and missions in Southern Alberta.

Assistant Director

J. F. WILKIE

Coming to Coleman in March 1942 from Brooks, Jim Wilkie first became associated with Sentinel Motors. In 1945 he branched out for himself and took over the present White Rose Service Station. Selling his interests in this venture in 1947, he purchased the McColl-Fontenac Service Station which he owns and operates as The Motordrome.

Although actively engaged in the automobile business, the first love of the "Brooks Farmer" leaned towards horses, cows and calves. In 1946 with assistance from a number of enthusiasts, the first Coleman Rodeo was staged under the guidance of Herman Linder as Arena Director or with Jim Wilkie ably supporting as assistant director.

In this first year, long and hard hours of work were put in constructing the judges stand, corral, chutes, grandstand, catch-pens and ground improvement.

The success of the initial enterprise was beyond expectations and in no small measure may be attributed to the zeal and drive of big Jim.

In the years 1947-1952 "Mr. Rodeo" has served as Chairman and Assistant Arena Director and still has found time to act on the Grounds Committee, putting up wire and split-rail fences, digging post-holes, contracting for stock, loading, unloading and herding stock, distributing advertising, lending assistance to the Parade Committee and looking after many other details.

As we might expect, this year will be no exception and we find him today in the grip of rodeo fever.

This southern corner of Alberta in general and Coleman in particular, owe much to the promoter of our Rodeo. One of the surest ways of expressing the gratitude due him will be to keep the turnstiles clicking steadily when the seventh show is presented on July 4th and 5th.

Invitation Extended To Attend Rodeo

To all who read these lines I extend my most cordial welcome to our town and rodeo.

For several years now we have been successfully entertained at these special events which our community has provided. To plan all this for your entertainment requires months of planning . . . to plan this well takes leadership, and the leaders that our town is able to furnish are typical average persons without any special talents for this kind of work, except a well developed sense of citizenship responsibility. It is not their purpose to do extraordinary things, but rather to do things extraordinarily well.

Every community needs good leadership. No community can grow and create pride in its citizens unless there are individuals within its group who are willing to take time from their private affairs and make sacrifices for the good of all . . . even to the extent of contributing from their purse.

People who are willing to make such sacrifices are known as community leaders. In order to encourage this kind of leadership in our town, let us all, as citizens of Coleman and the Crows Nest Pass give our full support to the Rodeo and other activities next Friday night and Saturday.

TOTTENHAM STARS—Seeing that most young men in Britain these days stand a fair chance of Service in one of the branches of the Armed Forces, it isn't at all strange that big league soccer scouts keep a weather eye open for potential stars whenever they meet these teams. This trio, for instance, Dennis Uphill, (left); Eddie Gibbins, (centre), and Chris Adams, (right), were all picked up that way. In fact, Uphill is still serving in the Ordnance Corps, and plays with the Army team. The Spurs recently toured Canada and the U.S.

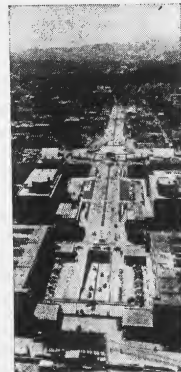

RISKY BUSINESS—A maintenance worker nears the top of the north tower of San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge after a half-mile uphill hike from the centre of the span. This task is part of the regular inspection to keep the structure in tip-top shape. The huge bridge spans the Golden Gate where the Pacific and San Francisco Bay meet. The photographer? Oh, yes! He's perched on a narrow ledge of the tower, 750 feet above the water.

HISTORY IN MINIATURE—HMS Ark Royal, the flagship that led the English fleet of Elizabeth against the Spanish armada in 1588, sails again on a mantelpiece at Greenfield Park, Que. And today, just as 364 years ago, a Howard is her skipper. The present-day Ark Royal is a model, of course, built by Thomas Edward Howard. He got the idea when Britain's new Elizabethan age was ushered in recently with the proclaiming of Elizabeth II as queen. Adding interest to the work was the fact that the original Ark Royal, which led the assault against the Armada, was commanded by Charles Howard, second Baron Effingham and Lord High Admiral of England.

Two 28-storey buildings already being built will accommodate more than 2,000 office workers each.—Central Press Canadian.

COMMON SENSE ITEMS

If you are staying for a period of time in a cottage or resort, it is well to have a plan of action mapped out especially if there are children. DIDN'T IMPROVE AFTER 2,500 YEARS—Nearly five years ago, archaeologists excavating in Athens uncovered a strange object, product of the hands of an ancient Greek potter who lived long before the Christian era—more than 2,500 years ago. Here is the ultra-modern Yiannis Varvaro? posies, 15-months-old son of one of the excavation workers, seated in the ancient highchair. OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

THE FLOWER HUNTER

By Louis
Arthur CunninghamWhen the Proposal Came to Elizabeth Rand, Did Not Laugh
As She Thought She Would Do.

ELIZABETH RAND looked with wonder at the pale young man among the flowers.

"You tell me, Mr. Grantley, that you would be content to spend all your life in a little cabin up here on the hills? You never long to get out into the real life of the world—the life that means conflict, struggle and sorrow? Don't you ever feel that the world is your heritage—a hard one to claim, I'll grant you, but one worth while? You dodge its responsibilities by living . . . among flowers?"

John Grantley smiled tolerantly at Elizabeth's young enthusiasm. Grantley was a blond, thin young fellow. He wore glasses and there were many wrinkles about his eyes; yet, for all that, he looked much older than he really was.

"So you think it is not a man's place . . . among the flowers, Miss Rand? I am a sort of a slacker . . . is that it? Every man must live his own life. I do not say that mine will always be like this . . . up here in the quiet hills, away from the cities and their crowds. No, it is not always summer. There are not always flowers."

They were sitting on the grass in front of the mountain cabin where Elizabeth, staying at the big house of the Simonds family, her relatives, two miles down the mountains, often came to talk to the strange man whom people called The Flower-Hunter.

"When September comes . . . and it is only a month away . . ." continued Grantley, "I shall leave here unhappy, unless . . . unless . . . Elizabeth, dearest, I love you. I want you. Won't you marry me?" Elizabeth drew her hand from his. She had often wondered what she would do if this man proposed to her. She would laugh, she used to tell herself. It would be too ridiculous. She, a senior at Vanstone, just a year away from her degree, proposed to a rather skinny, bespectacled, sunburned young man who lived in a crazy cabin banked around by flowers of countless varieties and colors.

But when the proposal came she did not laugh. The woman was not made that could laugh at the sincerity and honest love that Grantley showed. His mild blue eyes, trying to read her face eagerly, searched for her happiness in the depths of her eyes . . . those baffling, brown eyes that had been too much for many a love-smitten collegian.

"Harry yes?" Elizabeth felt deep in her heart that she cared for him. But it was all so impossible. Her parents would never hear of the match. It was taken for granted by Elizabeth's family and friends that she would marry Pierce Regan, a Senior at Nadham. Pierce was coming up to visit the Simonds and her that very afternoon; probably was there by now, while she was sitting on the cool grass in the shadow of a flowering rose bush listening to a proposal of marriage.

"I could never marry you, John . . . I am sorry . . . sorry this has happened. We were such friends, and I loved to come and visit you and all with you here among your flowers. But now . . ."

As gently, as kindly as she could, Elizabeth told him the many things that stood in the way of their marriage.

He listened patiently, a whimsical smile crinkling his lips. "Could not love overcome all your objections, Elizabeth? Tell me . . . do you care for me at all? If I love the flowers, go out with your world of conflict . . . He shrugged. "would you . . . could I hope to win you? You have another year at Vanstone, you tell me. At the end of that time . . ."

"But Pierce Regan . . . We have been intended for each other since childhood. Pierce is a fine chap . . . Why, here he comes now!"

A grey roan was crawling up the mountain road from the great white pile of the Simonds house far below them.

"He is coming for you," said Grantley, looking away from her, toying with the rose in his hand. "I'm sorry if I have spoiled our friendship, Elizabeth. I was sort of a fool to hope that you . . . that you would love a silly Flower-Hunter."

He said the words not bitterly. There was a hint of sorrow about his mouth. Elizabeth's heart ached for him. Certainly she wasn't in love with Pierce. The grey car came nearer.

"I must say good-by to you now, Elizabeth. We may meet again. Yes, I feel sure that we shall meet again, and let it be as friends."

Elizabeth could have wept. Oh, for time . . . just a little time to think calmly. She did not want to lose him. It had been so lovely.

Pierce came up the path to the door. With a thrill that was not jealousy Elizabeth saw that a girl waited in the car. Pierce was rather fond of Mae Glenning.

"Hello, Beth!" called Pierce; then, looking at Grantley he stopped in confusion.

"Why, hello, professor," he said like a shy Freshman. "I didn't know it was up here you were working on your book. And is it true you are leaving our school for good to teach at Vanstone? I've never had so fine a class as my Freshman Botany."

Pierce marked Elizabeth's puzzled embarrassment.

"I guess Mr. Grantley has been gooding you, Beth. He is the greatest botanist in the country. He's going to teach at your school next year. Well, perhaps you would just as soon stay here and talk. I suppose Mr. Grantley will have some Senior classes and you might like . . ."

"Yes," said Elizabeth. "I . . . I think I may sign up with him."

NEW TOURIST SPOT

OSLO, Norway.—Tourists will be able to visit the Arctic Island of Spitzbergen this summer. The Norwegian vessel Lyngen will make six voyages from Tromsø to Spitzbergen from July 1 to August 30. Spitzbergen was the scene of a wartime raid in which Canadian troops took part in 1941.

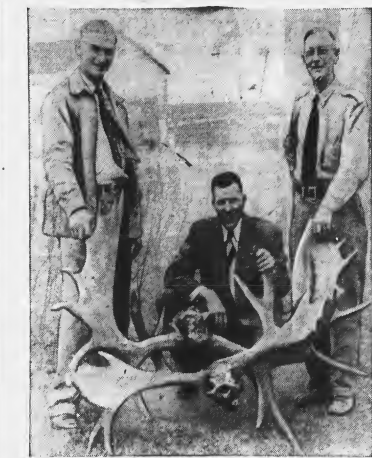

PHOTO-PROOF OF BUSHLAND BATTLE—Many bushmen who have spent all their lives in the Canadian forests have never seen evidence that moose sometimes look like men in battle and, unable to untangle themselves, die. Dan Row, (left), a salesman who travels Ontario's north country, brought back this photographic proof it can and does happen. At Hearst, Ont., two government employees examine the evidence and pronounce it genuine. They couldn't separate the horns, which together weighed 250 pounds.—Central Press Canadian.

You'll Like This Family--We Did

—And the Family Reading Club chose it as "safe and enjoyable for all members of the family to read." It's called "The Penningtons" and is written by a man who knows his characters thoroughly and makes them like life. In fact we'd bet he knew them all in real life.

The whole 234 pages interested and amused so much that we couldn't stop till we'd read them all. Many friends tell us they felt they knew the people in the story and were greatly pleased we'd recommended it to them.

Big city reviewers who get all kinds of books felt in love with the Pennington family story and gave long columns of praise as W. A. Deacon of Toronto Globe and Mail said, in part—

"A bold venture on the part of the author is certainly going to repay him well because a large number of people are going to like The Penningtons immensely."

It starts slowly in a city, which might be Fredericton, with the hard-knocked, very poor dean of the cathedral, his wife, whose temper had suffered from the trials of parish service, and half a dozen children, varying from a boy of 11 to a son and daughter each in their early 30's. Two of the children are already married when the story opens, three more marry during its course.

The action consists of the problems of the home, the reactions of the brothers and sisters to each other and to their parents. Ties of natural affection are very strong, as they are apt to be in large families. It is impossible to say when the dangers and sayings of the Penningtons waken interest. Perhaps it is through the similarities and contrasts of family traits in the members of the group. But there is no doubt at all that the interest in the fortunes of the group and its members mounts imperceptibly and steadily throughout the narrative.

On the dean's death, some of the children go to the eldest brother, Adrian, in Rochester, while Philip joins his brother-in-law, Robert, in Montreal. At first this reader credited the change of scene with the increasing interest, because both cities are graphically handled. But in the final pages it became evident that absorption in the story was the product of Mr. Partridge's success with his people. Utterly natural in all they do, they are completely credible as human beings. The reader comes to believe in them as real.

If your bookseller has not got the book (it sells at $3.75) you could ask him to get it from the publishers who are graphically handled. But in the final pages it became evident that absorption in the story was the product of Mr. Partridge's success with his people. Utterly natural in all they do, they are completely credible as human beings. The reader comes to believe in them as real.

Basil Partridge has done a grand job in "The Penningtons" and his good to see a Canadian author with a real success in his first book but of course he has been a successful writer for years and a great student.

Printer With A Few Drinks

Out in Missouri a farmer gave a printing office an order for sale bills. The job was promised for June 30th.

The date being the last day before the prolonged drought started. The printer decided to take a few drinks. He took several. Then he happened to remember the bills that were promised for delivery that day and staggered to the office to get out the job.

The farmer called for the bills, paid for them, and took them home. Next day he started to put them up, and this is what he read when he came to the list of articles for sale:

Twenty-five cows broke to work; 41 head of cultivators coming in soon; 10 head of shovelling boards with scoops at side; 8 piano mares; 120 rods canvas belting, better than new; De Laval cow with ice cream attachment; McCormick binder in foal; Poland china bobbed due to farrow in April; 14 head of chickens with grass seed attachments, in good working order; 2 1/2 Case riding helms, good as new, spraying outfit, can be ridden by children; 15 Billy goats, 70 bushels capacity with spraying nozzle and other attachments. Many other articles too numerous to mention, which I expect to get at night between now and date of sale.

New Pet Replacing Wire-Terrier In U.K.

LONDON.—Figures issued by Britain's kennel club show that the Welsh Corgi, a favorite of the royal family, is becoming the most popular family pet.

The Corgi has moved up to fourth place in the annual popularity poll of pedigree pups, displacing the wire-haired terrier which has been one of the first four more than 30 years. The Corgi's popularity dates from 1933 when the late King George VI bought a pup for his daughter, Princess Elizabeth. Now Elizabeth as Queen has a Corgi called Sugar as nursery pet for her two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne. The pup is daughter of the reigning pet of the royal household, Susan.

For The Picnic

Here's Some Quick and Appetizing Sandwiches

Pork and Bean Sandwich Spread

One pound can pork and beans, 3 tablespoons sweet relish, 2 tablespoons salad dressing or mayonnaise. Mash the beans. Add relish and salad dressing; mix thoroughly. Spread between slices of toast or bread. Makes 8 sandwiches.

Cheese and Egg Spread

1 tablespoon fat
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon mustard
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 cups grated cheese

Melt fat and cook onion in it for 1 minute. Add flour, sugar, mustard and salt and stir till well blended. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add vinegar and cheese. Continue cooking until cheese melts and mixture is smooth. Add eggs and cool. Store in a covered jar in a cold place. Makes 2 1/2 cups filling.

Lunch Box Suggestions

Orange juice (1 part) and peanut butter (2 parts), add a little sugar and salt to taste. Beat until creamy. Lemon juice (1 tablespoon) and butter (1 1/2 lb.), cream together. Spread sandwiches for meat, egg and fish fillings.

Chopped shrimp, celery, mayonnaise.

Chopped bacon and hard-cooked eggs, mixed with mayonnaise. Salmon (flaked), lemon juice, minced onion, mayonnaise. Dried beef and Canadian cheese. Cottage cheese and minced water cress.

Fried egg and lettuce. Peanut butter and sweet pickle. Smoked beef and horseradish mixed with butter. Ham and Swiss cheese.

Salmon With Cucumber

1/2 lb. can salmon
2 hard cooked eggs
10 stuffed olives
mayonnaise
1 small onion
1 small cucumber
chili sauce

Chop salmon flaked, hard cooked eggs stuffed olives, onion, cucumber. Mix with equal parts of chili sauce and mayonnaise. Place in thinly sliced bread buttered with lettuce. This will make 18 large sandwiches.

Honey Butter

1 cup honey (finely granulated)
1/4 cup butter

Have both honey and butter in soft mix stage and stir together until thoroughly blended. Put in covered jar and keep in cool place (as you would butter). Excellent as a spread on toast, muffins, hot biscuits, soda crackers, etc.

Pinwheel Sandwich

1/4-inch sliced bread, cut lengthwise of loaf
Peanut butter
3 cooked pitted prunes

Remove the crusts from the bread slice and roll with a rolling pin. Spread peanut butter over the bread, right out to the edges. Arrange whole pitted prunes along one narrow end. With this end towards you, roll up the bread just like a jelly roll. Wrap tightly in waxed paper and store in refrigerator. Slice with a sharp knife when ready to serve.

Cinnamon Honey Spread

1 cup honey
1/2 cup butter
cinnamon

Mix honey and butter as for honey butter, and add sufficient cinnamon to suit taste. Store in covered jar in cool place. Serve with warm toast.

Spanish Sandwich Spread

2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon fat
1 cup thick tomato pulp
1 egg well beaten
1 cup grated cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of paprika

Saute the onion in the fat 5 minutes; add tomato pulp, cheese, salt and paprika and cook 5 minutes longer or until cheese is melted. Stir a small amount of the mixture into the egg, return to the hot mixture and cook 2 minutes longer. Store in a covered jar in a cool place. This mixture may be served hot on toast-bread as a lunch or supper sandwich.

Meat and Olive Spread

2 cups ground Bologna, or cooked meat
1/2 cup minced pimiento stuffed olives
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup salad dressing
Combine all ingredients. Mix well. Chill.

Salmon and Horseradish

1/2 lb. can salmon
2 hard cooked eggs
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon French mustard
Flake salmon, mash fine, add hard cooked eggs chopped and seasoned with French mustard and grated horseradish. Add mayonnaise if desired. Mince well together and spread on buttered bread. Makes about 2 dozen sandwiches.

Chopped Meat Sandwich

1 cup leftover meat, chopped
1 teaspoon mustard
2 finely chopped, hard-cooked eggs
1 tablespoon chopped pickle or vinegar
Mayonnaise to moisten
Mix all ingredients together. Spread on generously buttered bread.

Eggs and Bacon Sandwich

3 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
3 slices bacon, fried broken in pieces
2 teaspoons finely chopped parsley
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon prepared yellow mustard
Combine all ingredients. Yield 3/4 cup.

Tuna-Apple Filling

1/2 cup tuna
1 cup finely chopped apple
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
Combine all ingredients.

Hanging Restores Fabric In Wool

If a man has two suits of clothes and wears each three days a week, they should last twice as long as one suit worn every day. Wrong—they will last at least three times as long.

Because, in hanging, the elastic nature of the woven woolen fabric restores itself to shape.

Bar accident, or being caught in the rain, a suit should therefore only require pressing once a month, cleaning probably every second month. A properly formed wishbone hanger contributes much to the snugness of fit at the collar.

NOTICE

Hospital Contracts for Resident Non-Ratepayers

During the entire month of July, both single and family contracts for membership will be available at the hospital for the amount of $8.00, thus giving non-ratepayers the same benefits and protection as the property owners. All persons, who have not purchased contracts in January, are urged to do so in July, as the contracts will not be for sale again this year.

It is pointed out that benefits become available immediately upon purchase of the contract.

This notice is also directed to all young persons, who have secured employment for the first time, or those who will leave school to become permanently employed thus becoming independent. These persons should take advantage of the membership, because in the event of being hospitalized and not having contracts, they will be charged full rates.

ATTENTION PASSENGER CAR OPERATORS

Section 41a--(1) of The Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act reads as follows:

"No person shall drive any motor vehicle registered pursuant to this Act unless,—

- (a) the motor vehicle has been inspected within twelve months; and
- (b) a certificate of approval has been issued pursuant to this section."

All Authorized Testing Stations have now been approved with certificates and windshield transfers to cover the ensuing twelve month period commencing July 1st, 1952. The attention of motorists is particularly called to the fact that certificates of approval which they previously obtained are only valid for a period of twelve months from the date of issue.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

CLOSER CO-OPERATION BETWEEN TOWNS

Close harmony between towns is always a desirable thing. When you find two towns as close together as Blaimore and Coleman, close harmony is practically a must. As Coleman moves east and Blaimore west, the gap between them is growing shorter . . . the gap between harmony must grow shorter as well.

A good start on harmonious living is evident this week while Coleman prepares for their annual rodeo. Last winter while Blaimore celebrated its annual Winter Carnival, Coleman Board of Trade pitched in and supported the event by entering a queen in the contest and the sale of tickets. In return, Coleman expected support from the town to the east in ticket sales for this week's rodeo . . . they were not disappointed, they were pleasantly surprised.

Mindful that one good turn deserves another, the Blaimore Board went quietly about their way and planned a gala float that will serve to add to the Coleman Parade and serve again as a money raising project for Coleman at a later date. Further mention of this may be found elsewhere in this paper.

While some may say that the float merely serves to advertise the Blaimore Housing plan, it comes as an act of neighborliness and comes at a time when Coleman faces an acute housing shortage. The day may not be too far distant when the same or similar scheme may be scheduled for Coleman.

Thank you Blaimore, Coleman appreciates your actions.

THANKS VOLUNTEER WORKERS

The rallying force of Coleman people to make their town a town to be proud of was evident last week when volunteers were called to help with the rodeo grounds.

Volunteer labor is usually the touchy part of any community project and appeared to be the bottleneck of the stampede. However when the rodeo committee had things lined up and gave the call for help . . . Coleman people and Coleman firms heard the call and answered. Post holes were dug, wire strung, material loaned and the field was disced. Once more the general populace proved community spirit was not a dead issue.

Coleman's rodeo is big business and is getting bigger every year. It is to be hoped that the same fine response will be evident again in future years.

RODEO GROUNDS TYPICAL BEAUTY SPOT

Those attending Coleman's annual Rodeo this weekend will be congregating in one of the most picturesque sports grounds in the Canadian West.

Sitting in the grandstand or just walking around waiting for the show to get underway, the visitor will be afforded one of the most beautiful panoramas available in southern Alberta. Looking to the north one may see the famous Crows Nest Mountain, which has caused considerable discussion as to how it got its name. Looking like a majestic cathedral, speckled with snow at its peak, it takes a high place in scenic value in the Canadian Rockies.

Looking down the valley, letting your gaze follow the winding river your attention will fade from the pleasing green carpet of vegetation that covers the mountain-side, skip past the hospital and settle on the famed Turtle Mountain . . . home of the historic Frank Slide. To the right and just over the brow of the hill some portions of Coleman may be seen nestled in its valley, proud to be a member of the Crows Nest Pass, while across the valley winds the black road to the strip mine, reminding us of our purpose here.

Yes, firstly we are a coal town, secondly a rodeo town, but most of all we are a proud town . . . proud of our surroundings and its beauty.

Cadets End Season With Overnight Manouvers

Twelve cadets from Coleman and Blairmore under the command of Lt. F. Mascaro and Sgt. R. Lowe, underwent tactical training and staged a mock battle during a two day bivouac at Castle Mountain Forest Reserve last Saturday and Sunday.

Working under adverse weather conditions, the youthful soldiers braved the elements while displaying the theoretical knowledge that they have gained during the past season.

Travelling by Jeep and Lorry, and equipped with Bren Gun, 302 LeEnfields, 22 rifles, two 58 walkie-talkies and a large 19 wireless set, the party left here early Saturday morning. Arriving at their point of training, the cadets concealed their vehicles from aerial view and then dug in. Each cadet dug his own individual fox hole as his quarters for the night. A temporary field kitchen was set up with cooks Cpl. Maniquet and G. Sollnor. Assistant cooks were A. Proski and J. Joseph.

Plans for the next day's mock battle were made the first night and a demonstration of tracer fire given by Lieut. Mascaro. During the entire night each cadet took his turn at patrolling the camp for one hour.

Camp inspection was conducted by Lieut. Mascaro and Sgt. Lowe Sunday morning, following which the cadets left by foot for a large field where manouvers would be held. During the march cadets were instructed in the proper manner in which to hike down a road under combat conditions. Instructions in the various types of field craft and tactics were outlined prior to the mock battle complete with blank shells. The highlight of this was how to conduct a frontal attack by use of alternating attacks by dispersed units on a single objective. This was controlled by whistle blasts from a central command.

Cadet Sgt. Mjr. Laithwaite and Bren Gunner Sollnor joined the two instructors in a defensive demonstration. Digging in at a point further away, these men faced the attack of the remainder of the cadets in an attempt to flush them out.

Returning to their camp in the same manner as the march up, the main body of cadets filed in their fox holes and loaded equipment while supper was being prepared. The party returned at 7 Sunday night.

Cadets attending the camp were: Coleman — J. Tymchany, D. Gentile, J. Joseph, A. Proski, K. Laithwaite, E. Filafilio, and M. Horne. Blairmore — B. Maniquet, E. Jones, G. Sollnor, D. Long, and cadet mascot Peter-son.

Highway Speed Limit Increased

The maximum speed limit for cars travelling on Alberta highways and roads has been raised from 55 to 60 m.p.h. effective July 1. New speed limit will be effective for both day and night driving.

Maximum speed limit, day or night, for trucks is 50 miles per hour, highway buses, 55 m.p.h. and school buses 40. Drivers are reminded that the new speeds are not effective until July 1. Motorists were reminded again of the penalties arising from driving while under the influence of liquor. For conviction on the charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, a driver automatically loses his driving licence for two months if it is the first offence and for one year for a second or subsequent offence.

Theatre News

July 3 and 4 sees the Roxy in a wild west mood in keeping with the annual Coleman Rodeo. Blazing guns and skilful riding is depicted when Rod Cameron stars in "Cavalry Scout". This is the story where a garrison with guts rode out to face the death spewing fury of Gatling guns.

Cary Grant and Betsy Drake will win your heart in "Room for One More". This is the story of a man who married the girl he loved and forgot to lock the door. This is a tender story of the love for children.

The taming of the feared Seminoles tribe and the story of the Fearless Forty, the rescue band that stormed the steaming swamp wilderness is shown in "Distant Drums" starring Gary Cooper on July 10 and 11.

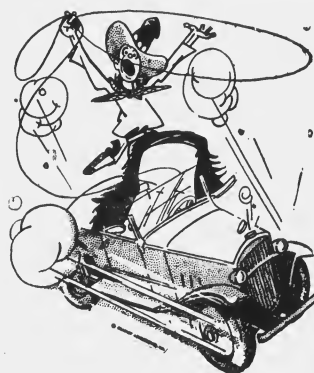

A wicked empress, the faithless wife of the ruler of decadent Rome and the impassioned love story of a pagan soldier and a beautiful Christian captive, is the story of "Quo Vadis". A 3-hour show that includes a cast of 30,000, this spectacle was three years in the making and will remain on your mind for many more years than that. Among the thrilling scenes included in this film epic is the devastating fire of Rome and the ceremonial dance of 60 girls.

This is Frosia Gregory, Toronto soprano, who lends a touch of glamour to the Saturday broadcast series, Continental Moods, with Ivan Romanoff conducting the orchestra, the show presents European cafe and dance music of yesterday and today. Miss Gregory has been active in radio since 1935. After graduating from the Juilliard School of New York she made a name for herself in concert and operatic work before turning to popular music as a dance band songstress.

Glacier Cabins Provide Ideal Holiday Setting

Back to nature... back to the normal... back to the better way of life... these are perhaps the most used slogans of today. These are slogans that have been foremost in mind when C. E. Huffman planned his Glacier Cabins at Crows Nest Lakes.

Realizing that the average tourist desired contentment and solitude combined with the comforts of home, Glacier cabins have been designed along modern lines of living standards, rustic lines of construction, and nature has been allowed to provide the surroundings. Nature has once more proved to be the greatest architect.

Nestling at the foot of Sentinel Mountain and hugging the shore line of beautiful Crows Nest Lake, Glacier Cabins sit amid nature's abundant growth of stately trees... poplar, aspen, fir and spruce. Wild roses entwine themselves around the stately trunks, while crystal clear Glacier Creek winds its way behind the cabins towards the lake. This creek rises from springs on Tent Mountain, scene of the highest strip mine in the world.

Each of the four housing units is distinctive for its style, utilizing cedar log effect, pine and knotty cedar to give a rustic air. Electric or coal stoves are available and each cabin complete with plumbing. Large expansive windows provide the guests with a sweeping view of nature's handiwork. Each cabin has its distinctive view, possibly the greatest being that which sweeps the lake to see Sentinel in all its rugged splendor. Travellers stopping at Glacier are ever impressed with the changing colors of this mountain with the variance of sunlight and time of day.

Opening to the general public only last August, Glacier has played host to countless travellers who are emphatic in their praise. Bookings for this season to date assure the project a successful future.

Mrs. Marie Mary Buried At Calgary

Funeral services for Mrs. Marie Mary, who passed away in Calgary on June 19, were conducted in St. Mary's church Calgary on Monday June 23. Father Fleming of Blairmore, conducted the service with burial being in St. Mary's cemetery.

Pallbearers were Etienne Richard, Pete Bertram, and Roy Wentland, of Calgary, and Frank Wislett, of Blairmore.

Born in Belgium, Mrs. Mary came to Canada and Coleman in 1912.

Surviving to mourn her loss are her husband Desire Mary and one grandchild, Mrs. S. Pinotti, of Coleman. She was predeceased by one son Fernand in July of 1939.

Cubs Bow to Michel-Natal 13 to 8

Coleman Cubs are finding it impossible to rack up their first win in the C.N.P. Baseball league this year, but are putting up valiant fights in every game.

Dropping their fourth straight to Natal-Michel last week, the Cubs remain in the league cellar, despite the loss, the team is showing strength in some departments and show signs of finishing the season in a much stronger position. Marvin Vangotsnoven hurled for six frames allowing all the opposition runs and giving up 13 hits. Fat Nakama replaced Marvin late in the game and kept the opposition from registering any more counters.

Jim Kitagauchi led the Coleman batsmen with three hits, Roy Hayashi and Bill Fraser collecting one a piece. Topping off a brilliant showing with a homer, youthful Walter Tymchyna added a single in the 9th and scored 2 runs for the Cubs. Walter was serving as a substitute for this game.

Blairmore Trims Cubs

Blairmore Canuks proved their right to perch at the top of the league and added some weight to their threat for the league title by handing the Coleman Cubs a 13 to 3 trimming at Blairmore on Wednesday, June 25.

Blairmore batters found the range early in the first frame and melted the Coleman pitching staff for nine runs. Coleman settled down after this disastrous session and kept the game on a more even plain. Despite the 10 run difference between teams, fans express that it was a good game to watch.

HOWARD CABLE

One of Canadian Radio's youngest and busiest arrangers-conductors is Howard Cable (above), whose newest broadcast series is Cable's Concert Band, heard Sunday evenings at 4:30 p.m. on CBX, on the Trans-Canada network and on MBS in the United States. Born in Toronto, he gave up an athletic career to join a high school orchestra as clarinetist. Then he organized his own aggregation, which had that "certain something" that attracted attention and got him his first break in radio. Since 1943 nearly every major radio musical show has featured arrangements by Cable. He has arranged and conducted for the Leslie Bell Singers since 1948, and during the winter he also waves the baton for the Musical Kitchen radio series.

Our Coleman Rodeo

In the cattle days of the early West
The cowboy roved at his very best,
Now we find his skills to show
He journeys to the Rodeo.
Aboard a bronc he gets a thrill
Or bites the dust from a spill.
He leaves the chute in daring ride
On horse or Brahma all in stride.
He ropes a calf with loop so true
He amazes both me and you.
At the horns of some wild steer
A ribbon he loops without fear.

Color in dress are his style
Hat or chaps seen for a mile.
All in all he's distinct
A human far from extinct.
So this year for two days
You will see him in your gaze
In our town at the show
At our Linder rodeo.
We too will take some pride
As each cowpoke makes a ride.
Bites the dust or ties a calf
Or to some others gives a laugh.

To our rodeo we wish it luck
Which to see we pay a "buck."
When we see you at our show
The good old Coleman Rodeo.

Mr. and Mrs. Christie Honored Prior To Departure

Mr. and Mrs. H. Christie were honored at a farewell party last week prior to their departure for Ponoka where Mr. Christie has been transferred by the C.P.R. Mr. Christie has served as agent for that company at Coleman for the past five years.

On Sunday evening June 22, the couple were guests at a social evening held by the congregation of St. Paul's United church. Musical items provided a pleasing portion of the evening's entertainment, with lantern slides of various local scenes shown by Rev. Morrison rounding out the activities.

A dainty lunch was served by the following committee, Mrs. S. Murdoch, Mrs. P. Dickieson, Mrs. N. McKinnon, Mrs. W. Lonsbury, and Mrs. Morrison.

Mr. R. Woods presented the honored guests with a picture of Crow's Nest Mountain as a gift from those assembled and voiced the regrets at the loss of two willing and cheerful members, at the same time conveying best wishes to them in their new home.

Mrs. W. Lonsbury, on behalf of the Ladies Auxiliary, presented Mrs. Christie with a beautiful cup and saucer.

Mr. and Mrs. Christie very ably thanked their friend for the gifts and good wishes.

On Thursday last, the Missionary Society of St. Paul's United Church, met at the home of Mrs. Hugh Dunlop. At the close of the evening, refreshments were served, and Mrs. Maers presented Mrs. Christie with a farewell gift.

On Wednesday June 18, Mrs. C. Fisher entertained twelve ladies at afternoon tea in honor of Mrs. H. Christie. The guest of honor was presented with a gift from the hostess.

Coleman Lions Install Officers

The officers for the coming year were installed by the Lions Club at their meeting last Monday night. All officers had been nominated at a previous meeting.

J. R. Hill was installed as president with J. Coldwell vice-president. Leslie Owen was appointed to handle secretarial duties with R. Skierkowski Treasurer, J. Montalbetti, Tail Twister, and H. Clark, B. Bond, A. Graham and H. Weltons on the board of directors.

Council Declares Civic Holiday July 5

Saturday, July 5, has been declared a civic holiday in Coleman on passing of bylaw 254 at the last regular meeting of the town council. This action was taken to add support to the Coleman rodeo. Council showed their co-operation in this show in various ways, granting a request of the Board of Trade in regards to fixing the approach to the grounds, and for the erection of an arch and certain decorations.

The Canadian Legion petitioned the council in regards to improvements to the cenotaph. Councilors granted the permission and commended the association for their actions.

During the correspondence, a letter was read from the Minister of Highways showing that the various requests made by the town to that department would be carried out.

Payment of $6,716.55 was made on the school board requisition, leaving a balance of $25,000 to be paid. A balance of $5,000 will be left for the C.N.P. Municipal hospital following payment of $5,823.99.

It was announced at the meeting that Mayor Aboussafy will attend the convention of Mayors in Calgary.

Dignitaries To Open Kananaskis Highway

Word has been received that important dignitaries from Ottawa and Edmonton will officiate at the official opening of the new Kananaskis highway north of Coleman on July 22. At the time of going to press it was not known just who would attend.

The program calls for the official party to leave Coleman at 10 a.m. and proceed to Cataract Creek Camp Grounds where lunch will be served at 12:30. Following lunch the official opening ceremonies will be carried out and the party proceed to Calgary.

Guests may continue from this point and inspect the road either direction, but it is pointed out that on leaving Cataract Creek no conducted tour will be held.

Blairmore Board of Trade Enters Float

Blairmore Board of Trade have said thank you to the Coleman Board for their assistance during the Blairmore Winter Carnival by the entering of a float in the Rodeo parade and handling ticket sales through Rolfe Stewart's Scout Troop.

The Blairmore float will be a scale model of the houses being erected at that centre under the Central Housing and Mortgage Plan. Measuring 8 ft. by 9 ft., by 6 ft. high, this fine replica will, following the parade, be presented to the Coleman Board of Trade to be raffled off as a children's playhouse.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE SEEKS BERRY PICKERS

Female berry pickers are very badly needed in British Columbia. The National Employment Offices are endeavouring to supply labour to assist in taking off the crop.

Female workers are required age 18 - 45 at Mission, B.C. No children or pets to be taken with them. They will require to take their own blankets, linen, towels and personal dishes and cash for 1 weeks food, batching quarters will be supplied by farmers. Transportation is provided by National Employment Offices to Mission on payment of $10.00. Reduced rate will also apply to return journey. Schedule of rates paid by farmers to berry pickers may be obtained at your Local Employment Office.

Clothing should be taken suitable for field work.

Board of Trade President J.R. Hill Urges Full Support

Some sceptics might reasonably ask, "Why a rodeo in a mountainous coal-mining community?"

This question has been emphatically answered six times since the first Rodeo was staged in 1946 by the large crowds witnessing this form of entertainment then and in the succeeding years.

This is the day set apart by Coleman residents for one big public festivity and is in itself an expression or demonstration of faith in the town and its future. This is the only local function where a full representation of the community unites to provide a distinctive form of celebration for young and old.

In the beginning, a certain proportion of the profits was laid away with the idea of one day using this money to build a much-needed Civic Center. The money is still available for such a project if certain obstacles can be overcome. If a Civic Centre is beyond our reach, the same money will be spent on some worthwhile community enterprise which all may be privileged to share and enjoy.

To those who direct the destinies of the Coleman Rodeo, to the ones who year after year share the responsibilities, whether it be in selling tickets, decorating the town, advertising, helping in the various booths or other parts of the organization, to the merchants, without whose whole-hearted co-operation the Rodeo would not be possible, to the Mine Company whose support and consideration is so vital, your Board is deeply indebted.

To one and all we urge you to support Coleman's 7th Rodeo which promises to be the greatest event ever produced in such a picturesque setting which can only be a financial success by your attendance.

Farm Workers Needed In Ontario

For the tenth consecutive year farm workers from Alberta are required in Ontario, according to F. J. Late, manager, National Employment Service, Blairmore, Alberta.

Low cost fares enable farm workers from any point in Alberta to move to distribution centres in Ontario on payment of $10.00 only. Return transportation is available between August 15th and 31st at a cost of $11.50.

The low fares are made possible by subsidies jointly financed by the province of Ontario and Federal Government, under the Federal Provincial Farm programme and by special tariffs granted by the railways. The Provincial Government also contributes to the success of the project by assisting in recruiting and despatching workers through their farm help service.

National Employment Offices will make all arrangements for the transfer of workers to Ontario.

Let's All Go To The Coleman Rodeo

A Flying Trip To England

by Mrs. K. Johnston

A trip to Merrie England in the merry month of May is one of the thrills of a lifetime. It is just 19 hours flying time from Calgary to London with the Trans-Canada Airlines, insuring travel comfort and a pleasant journey.

The weather in Britain I was informed was the best it had been for the month of May for many years. When the plane made a happy landing at Prestwick the sweet perfume of spring flowers everywhere gave us a joyous welcome.

After a brief stay in Scotland I boarded the plane again for London where the largest sky-liners from all over the world are landing day and night. Heath Row, the London Airport, is the largest in the world and a very busy place indeed. My brother and sister whom I had not seen since 1913 were there to meet me. What a wonderful reunion we had.

The following day we visited Windsor Castle. The Queen was at Buckingham Palace, and the Royal Apartments at Windsor were open to the public. To understand the full significance of this castle one must know of its long and splendid history, of Runnymede and the Magna Carta.

I saw the ceremony trooping of color on the Horse Guards Parade. The martial music of massed bands of pipes and drums had a stirring effect. This ceremony when viewed completely is wonderful to behold.

A visit to the Tower of London was very enjoyable, huge crowds of people were everywhere. One of the most popular attractions was the glittering display of the priceless and historic crown jewels. Included also was the regalia of the High Orders, such as the Order of the Garter, the Order of the Bath, and others with their perfectly matched emeralds and brilliantly white diamonds, festooned and looped together with gem quality stones of all colors.

May 24th was gala day of Old English pageantry. Every district was celebrating the event with a revival of the old Morris Dances on the village green or common. Young and old enjoyed a lively participation in these traditional dances of Britain.

I joined the crowds thronging to the weeklong Chelsea Flower Show opened by Queen Elizabeth. It contained gorgeous displays of exotic flowers flown in from all over the world. Rare varieties of orchids were a feast to the eyes.

On Derby Day my relatives and I went to Epsom. Of course one does not go to the Derby without putting a couple of bob on a horse, and I had the good luck to back two winners.

The new clothes worn by the ladies at this classic race are considered to be the latest style from Paris. These consisted mostly of high-necked, very full-skirted dresses, and large picture hats swathed in matching colored tulle. A small bunch of pink roses on the handle of a parasol appeared to be the height of fashion. The Derby this year was considered to be the most dramatic seen in thirty years with the British race horse showing his supremacy over the best of those from France.

I basked in the sun at Brighton, or London-by-the-sea, as it is also familiarly known. Here the piers stretch more than a mile out into the sea. Theatres and other places of amusement are situated on these. How peaceful it was to watch the fishermen mending their nets in an age old occupation.

At Eastbourne, the beautifully designed flower beds, make this a very picturesque sea side resort. I found it was a good place to get a sunburn!

I enjoyed roaming around London. Remnants of the Festival of Britain are still to be seen along the Thames river. Here Battersea Gardens provide a wide variety of entertainment for all, amid the beautiful floral surroundings.

Fleet Street, — "Printers Paradise" — or is it? — has developed into a combination of ancient and modern. The modern offices of the newspaper "The London Daily Telegraph" seem to stand out self-consciously among the old buildings that for years have characterized this particular thoroughfare.

From here I strolled down the dear old Strand to Trafalgar Square and on to so many landmarks that are still familiar to Londoners despite the heavy punishment from enemy bombers during the war years.

Food is still rationed with meat being in scarce supply. However I found the British housewife very proud that they managed fine and still had plenty of coupons left over. Plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables obtained from France, Italy, Spain and the Canary Islands made this possible.

Jet planes screamed overhead, streaking across the sky in aerial manoeuvres.

At Hampton Court there is so much to be seen. I was particularly impressed with the priceless collection of ancient tapestries. In addition tapestries from all over the world are brought here to be repaired by experts.

Plants from the far corners of the earth thrive in Kew Gardens. I visited here on a week day as Sundays are much too crowded.

In fact, Britain with her fifty million people is far too congested something of which I was continually being made aware. However very few seem to have the desire to emigrate.

My sister and I attended a very impressive service in St. Paul's Cathedral. The veterans of the South African war were commemorating their fiftieth anniversary. Those be-medalled vets of the Boer War were surprisingly spry and active. Of a certainty, old soldiers never die. It was a treat to hear the vibrant soprano voices of the fifty choir boys singing unaccompanied. The high altar, damaged by a bomb during the blitz, is being replaced.

All London is looking lovely and green with a profusion of flowers everywhere. In places where there has been widespread disaster and destruction, great progress is being made in the erection of fine modern buildings, and large blocks of self-contained, up-to-date flats. Nature had covered the vacant spaces with flowers and ferns. Everyone who wants to work is working, and big crews of men are getting the public buildings ready for the Coronation next year.

My holiday coming to an end, I said farewell to my brother and sisters and to — "This land of sunlit seas and restless foam That calls us back, however far we roam."

GENERAL CONTRACTOR

Drove Over 5,000 Miles To Obtain One Picture

Someone once told writer that if he lived in Coleman for a few years and moved away, he would if liked at all, probably be presented with a picture of Crows Nest Mountain or another of Gushul's fine pictures. A new resident of the district, we construed the meaning to be that Gushul's had a monopoly on the gift business or that the purchaser followed the path of the least resistance and bought the usual gift.

However on seeing a Gushul scene and knowing the true story of the photographer, one must change his mind. The very first glance at a Gushul scenic shot shows the ultimate in balance, contrast and harmony. It is the work of a patient and gifted person... and as we have learned, the work of a man that has struggled and worked towards an end, this end being perfection if possible. With an eye for nature and a love for beauty, he once thrilled to the plan of capturing Crows Nest Lake in serenity. For seven years he traversed the road to the lakes waiting to catch them serene and mirror like. After more than 5,000 miles and countless hours had been consumed his patience was rewarded and the rare scene recorded for posterity.

Such a patience is unusually credited to character, yet in the case of Thos. Gushul it should as well be a tribute to the manner in which he moulded this character.

A native of the Western Ukraine, he arrived in Canada in 1906 following a hectic and somewhat dangerous escape from his homeland. At the age when he would soon be called for military service, he was not allowed a passport to leave his home. Dealing with a travel agency at Antwerp he proceeded to a border town without this document. A representative of the agency arranged his leaving with customs officials.

Accompanied by his brother-in-law Mike Nish (Knyz) who came to his death in a mine accident at the McGillivray mine in 1915, he spent two weeks in Antwerp then boarded the freighter Montezuma packed with immigrants bound for Canada. The two weeks in Antwerp proved a serious drain to their finances with the result that they travelled with little or no food. Dishonest stewards snared the lions share of the ships' stores and peddled it to the travellers in their bunks at night.

Arriving at St. John in May 1906, the two travellers had a solitary dime between them. This was used in the purchase of a large loaf of bread cut in half and shared equally. Equipped with a ticket through to Winnipeg they travelled without food as far west as Montreal then received rations every 24 hours through the kindness of a fellow traveller.

At Winnipeg they were met by immigration officials and taken to the Immigration sheds on Henry Avenue. Situated in the heart of Winnipeg's dense Jewish second hand stores, both new citizens were forced to part with valuable watches in order to get money to eat. Of this $1.50 a piece they each kept $1.00 for their fee to the employment agency should they find work. With the balance of fifty cents each they purchased a piece of stale bread, and 25c worth of smoked sausages. With food enough for two weeks they returned to the Immigration sheds, transferred their clothing to sacks and locked the food in their trunks.

The following day they received employment with the C.P.R. and went as sectionmen to Clanwilliam, west of Revelstoke, B.C. Mr. Gushul worked under a Finn foreman who considered his youth and gave him easy tasks. The prevailing wage for a ten hour day at this time was $1.50. Mr. Gushul at this time put in his entire shift picking huckleberries for the foreman who made shipments daily.

While working he sent money home regularly to his mother and sister Mrs. Pearl Baker, now of Coleman. When winter came and the job ended he left for Winnipeg again with roughly $40. Joining three other new Canadians at Winnipeg, he went to Vita, Man., where they found homes for the winter. Farmer friends of the trio provided them with an empty house. A pig was purchased at 5c per pound, a young calf, 2 sacks of flour, 50 lbs. cottage cheese and various vegetables, bringing their cost of living for a seven month period to $3.25 per month. Board and room including washing could be had at this time for $4 per month.

During this winter Mr. Gushul wrote and read letters for illiterate newcomers, paving the way for a school that he conducted the next two winters, teaching the children of that area how to read and write Ukrainian.

During the next two summers he found work with the C.N.R. and C.P.R. in various parts of Alberta and B.C. During the summer of 1908 he was with a C.N.R. steel gang, jumping the job with a group while working at Battleford. For 21 days they travelled with little or no food until they reached Edmonton. Leaving Edmonton they proceeded to Field, B.C. and found employment with the C.P.R. on construction of the famed Spiral Tunnels.

An outside worker on the project, Mr. Gushul was later called for work inside the tunnel and started loading cars with rock from the blasting. Warnings were given that picks must be used to drag the rock and not to strike as striking might set off charges left by the blast. On his first shift inside Mr. Gushul escaped death when his partner struck a charge and was blown to bits. The fact that Mr. Gushul had just gone back around a turn to get a drink of water saved his life. Making a fast decision he turned in his time and left the project without finishing the shift.

In 1909 he arrived in Coleman receiving employment at the mines and getting his start in photography. Purchasing a second hand and limited developing kit from a Coleman chap, he started on a career that has made him famous throughout the Pass.

Retaining his mine job he practiced developing, adding to his equipment and experience as the years went by, opening his first studio in Bush Town in 1918. These were the days of really poor streets and more than once Plant and Anle received a call to pull out a wedding party stuck in front of the Gushul Studio. As years passed and Gushul's negatives mounted in numbers the artist continued to take advanced courses and receive diplomas. This knowledge in turn was passed on to his son Evan, who as well entered another branch of the field, graduating as a photographer, until today whether it be scenic, portrait, picture framing or the making of plates for newspaper reproduction, the team of Gushul and son can do the work.

No one needs to be told the diplomas held by these two men or the quality of their work... these things are evident in their pictures.

A lover of music, Mr. Gushul, was a staunch supporter of the Music festivals and gave each of his children a musical education. Mr. Gushul married the former Lena Sawiek, in Coleman United Church on Sept. 19, 1914, the Rev. T. Murray officiating. Five children were the result of this union, four living today. Evan, Parvula (Mrs. W. Nelson) and Pollyanna (Mrs. K. Snowden) all reside in Coleman, another daughter Nadia (Mrs. Geo. Rose) resides at Yellowknife.

New Post Office Campaign Active

Renewed activity in obtaining a new post office for Coleman has been taken by the local Board of Trade. Despite the fact that little has been heard regarding this project, the chamber has been active.

A number of different people have been written in regards the needs, one of these being the unsuccessful Liberal candidate A. Lewis. Mr. Lewis replied that he had contacted the Post Master General and learned that the Public Works Department has been advised to check on a possible building site, although no money had been voted for a building. Mr. Lewis stressed that such expenditures are usually budgeted for a year ahead and advised the Coleman people to press their claim at this time.

Discussion learned that promises had been made and mention in Hansard signified that Coleman was to have a new public building during 1951. Other centres mentioned for new buildings at the same time already have theirs constructed. Mention was also made that Macleod received a new building only after the old one was due to be condemned.

However the assembly approved of an above the board dealing and instructed that further correspondence remind the Post Master General of the need. Pictures of the present building will be shipped to Ottawa to emphasize the building's condition.

Board of Trade Hears Final Rodeo Plans

A portion of the regular meeting of the Board of Trade meeting Thursday night served as a reviewing stand for the activities of the Rodeo committee.

President J. R. Hill presided over the meeting and during his expressions of thanks to the various parties, emphasized his thanks to Bob Pattinson for his efforts in recruiting workers and J. Allan Sr. for the fine display in Shields window.

Cliff Picard reported that he had contacted merchants throughout the Pass regarding floats and learned that those at other points would remain open Saturday and find it difficult to enter a float. Paton's Bakery however have signified their intention of joining the many other fine displays entered.

While discussing the parade it was ascertained that the Bellevue Band will definitely take part. St. John's Ambulance reported that they would be on the field in the event of emergency and Harold Cullam offered the use of his ambulance for the Friday night rodeo, the nine ambulance being used Saturday.

In an effort to eliminate conflicting events drawing from the admission sales, an effort is being made to have the beer parlors close for the hour between 1:45 and 2:45. J. Montalbetti and Mr. Cantor expressed willingness to close and arrangements were made to contact the Coleman Hotel and the Legion.

Some discussion was held concerning statements arising out of a previous meeting placing the carnival mix up upon one man. It was stressed that this man was not responsible for the trouble and that no intention to blame him was held at any time.

Additional Prizes For Carnival

Added prizes for the Coleman Rodeo have been announced this week through the generosity of J. A. (Slim) Williams of Coleman.

Mr. Williams has donated two pairs of the famous Dunlopillo Pillows that will be awarded to some lucky person. Valued far in excess of the standard pillow, these are the latest in comfort and health.

Rodeo Secretary Gives Details About Rodeo

To clear up any misunderstanding, there is no evening grandstand performance this year.

In place of this, on Friday night, July 4th, commencing at 6:30 p.m. a complete rodeo will be presented, featuring the following events:

Brahma Bull Riding
Saddle Horse Riding
Calf Roping
Wild Steer Decorating
Bareback Bucking Horse Riding
Wild Cow Milking Contest
Wild Horse Race

As an added attraction we have contracted this year for two professional clowns, who, besides offering some entirely new comedy numbers, will engage in Bull-fighting against the Brahmas.

Dave and Pauline Pickard who delighted a large crowd 2 years ago have been invited back to our Rodeo and will round out the program with some fancy roping and riding. As a specialty number, Mrs. Pickard will be riding two horses—Roman style—over a convertible coupe. We are both proud and happy to have these grand people once again at our show.

Saturday, July 5th—a full holiday—will be the big day commencing with the parade at 10:30 a.m. Already we have indications the entries will be larger than ever before. We are proud to announce our own Pipe Band under Pipe-Major James Moore and the Crows Nest Pass Band conducted by William Goodwin will be in attendance to add the right touch and color. The Michael-Natal Band on whom we have depended for the past six years have promised to be in the parade and will play special music during the rodeo events at both performances.

At 2 p.m. Arena Director Herman Linder will give the signal to "Let 'er buck" and the Rodeo will be on, with top performers attempting to demonstrate man's mastery over beast.

Remember... there are two rodeos this year. The one at 6:30 p.m. Friday evening, July 4th and Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

To complete the program we are holding a Carnival at the Skating rink each night—July 4th and July 5th—beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Membership tickets at 25c have been sold for the past three weeks and anyone holding such tickets is eligible for the door prizes which will be drawn for as follows:

Friday, July 4th—3-speed English Bicycle with special equipment for either a boy or girl—value $85.00.

Saturday, July 5th—Made-to-Measure Suit for either a lady or gentleman to be selected at the store of any merchant dealing in suitings—value $85.00.

Grand Award for the 7th Annual Rodeo—Foam Rubber Lazy Boy Chair—value $100.00.

Stores Remain Open Half Day Monday

An error was made in the article in last week's Journal regarding the closing of stores for the Rodeo.

As was stated, the stores will close all day Saturday, July 5th, but will open for business Monday morning, July 7th, however they will close at noon Monday, July 7 and not remain open all day as was previously stated.

People shop where they are invited—that's why it pays to advertise.

WEDDING CAKE boxes can be secured at The Journal office.

SPORTS FROM SEA TO SEA

All across Canada, sports-minded vacation planners are casting a speculative eye to the future, because summer time is outdoor sports time. Plans are already in high gear at the Canadian Pacific's coast to coast string of hotels and summer resorts which offer the ultimate in fishing, swimming and boating in fresh water or salt, golfing on some of the country's most renowned fairways, and many other forms of recreation. This beautiful water-hole at Digby Pines in Nova Scotia (top left) is a challenge to par-buster and novice alike. Following clockwise is a view of swimming at Banff Springs Hotel in Alberta, where water sports are enjoyed against a mountain backdrop. Always a zestful game, tennis is really exhilarating in the crisp mountain air of the Canadian Rockies at Banff and Lake Louise. Although found right across Canada, trout in the Rockies will prove a stern a proud trophy, as the beautiful test for the angler, as well as fisherman seems to be telling the Mountie.

A New Index

CANADIANS ARE PRESENTED periodically with a cost of living index which indicates the trend of prices of a variety of essential commodities used from day to day. For some time the trend was steadily upward and the figures verified the fact that living costs rose over an extended period in all parts of the country. It has recently been announced that the form of the index is to be changed and that shortly the barometer of prices will be known as the Consumer Price Index instead of the Cost of Living Index. The new title is only one of several changes which are to be made in this periodic report of the nation's living costs.

Our Economy Has Changed

In the future, the index will be based on prices which prevailed in 1949, instead of on the pre-war basis of prices as they were in the years from 1935 to 1939. This will automatically lower the figures in the report and perhaps give a more accurate indication of price trends, since there have been many changes in our economy since the pre-war period. It has been found that the method used to determine the index should also be changed since living conditions have altered since the present system was set up. A recent survey showed that in the past few years Canadians have tended to spend more on food and household operation and that because property ownership has increased, rent is a less common item in many family budgets. With these and other changes in mind it has been decided that in the future food will be given a higher percentage in the index, the clothing group cut slightly, and other alterations made in keeping with the changes in the spending habits of the people.

Has Attracted Wide Interest

Statistics which concern the daily life of the people are always interesting but they are also of value in many ways to business men and those who direct the nation's economy. The cost of living index has attracted wide interest in recent years because it has presented to the people in a clear form the changes in living costs in Canada. It is, perhaps, well that it has been decided to bring the index up to date with the spending habits of the people and to a basis more closely related to our present standard of living. While prices have risen considerably, employment rates have also increased and incomes in many cases have reached record heights. The cost of living index has been alarmingly high at times, but it has not told the whole story, and the new index will perhaps give a more accurate picture of conditions as they are now.

FOR THE TOURIST

Do's And Don'ts In Traffic Regulations

DO:

1. Have yourself and vehicle properly registered with the board.
2. Have your vehicle in good mechanical order (Especially brakes).
3. Properly sign your operator's license.
4. Be in good physical condition when driving a vehicle.
5. Make yourself conversant with the Traffic regulations.
6. Signal to indicate what your intentions are for the benefit of the other vehicle operators (They can't read your mind).
7. Report any accident in which you have been involved to the nearest R.C.M.P. office as soon as possible.
8. Remain at the scene of an accident in which you have been involved (You may save a life. You may also avoid prosecution, since it is an offence to leave the scene of an accident before exchanging names, addresses, etc.).
9. Drive your vehicle on the right side of the highway.
10. Stop before entering a provincial highway from a side road, driveway, etc.
11. Dim your lights when another vehicle is approaching from the opposite direction.

DON'T:

1. Exceed the limit of 50 miles per hour. (Trucks 40 m.p.h.)
2. Drive when you have been indulging in liquor refreshments.
3. Drive your vehicle on the highway without the proper lighting devices, including the clearance lights on trucks having a width of 80 inches or over.
4. Park on the left side of the highway. (A highway, as described in the vehicles act, includes streets of a village, town or city or any other place used by the public for auto traffic).
5. Allow anyone to ride on the exterior of your vehicle. (Both you and the passenger are liable for prosecution).
6. Overcrowd the driver's compartment of your vehicle.
7. Drive your vehicle without having good visibility, in all directions.
8. Leave your unlighted vehicle parked on the highway after dark.
9. Pass cattle on the highway at a speed over 15 m.p.h.
10. A bicycle is a 'Vehicle' as described in the Act and the driver thereof must comply with the regulations generally referring to the rules of the road).

The complying of the regulations governing the vehicular traffic may avoid accidents, save you from prosecution and lastly be appreciated by the law enforcement officer in your locality. He is no more anxious to have you pay a fine than you are.

"Would Not Take $1,000 For What Emerald Oil Has Done for Me" Writes Florida Lady

"The Ecema on my hips is entirely gone," writes Mrs. R. S. R. Kinsman, Florida. "I would not take one thousand dollars for what Emerald Oil has done for me. Will never be without it and will cheerfully recommend it to anyone suffering with Ecema."

MOON'S EMERALD OIL not just has to be good. If a bad skin condition troubles you, don't hesitate or worry any longer—get a small bottle of MOON'S EMERALD OIL and prove for yourself how good it is. On sale wherever drugs are sold.

Angling Tip By Expert

PRESTON, Ont.—William Griner has a tip for catching more fish but it may leave your stomach black and blue.

Mr. Griner's secret is to keep the rod pointed at the lure and while reeling in to hold the rod straight out from the body at almost arm's length.

When he feels action on the line he pulls the rod straight back against his stomach.

"At times I've pulled it into my stomach so hard it's almost hurt and my companions have heard me grunt with pain." The white-haired angler explains. "But I usually get my fish."

The retired Hamilton-born glass-blower says his method reduces the time lost in lifting the tip of the rod when a fish nibbles.

"As far as I know my method is not practised by anyone outside of myself. I picked it up from an Englishman a long time ago."

Mr. Griner's fishing career started at the age of three with his father on Hamilton Bay. At that time young William was lashed to the boat to prevent his falling or being dragged into the water by a fish. He brought his first fishing tackle around 1901 but now he makes his own. It takes half a day to make a spoon from copper, brass, nickel, silver, manganese, bronze and pure silver.

Mr. Griner believes he was the first man to introduce casting in Ontario.

"I had travelled around the north country," he says, "and had never seen a man casting before I started."

Today he holds life membership in three fishing clubs.

Knots May Be Ugly But Save Trees

KENT, D. — Knots generally are not wanted by home craftsmen or carpenters, but they help the tree solve the knotty problem of self-preservation.

So says Martin L. Davey, Jr., tree expert, who points out the knots are merely the gnarled growth provided by nature in healing over the wounds where branches were shed.

As branches grow and crowd each other, trees do some self-pruning and shedding of branches, he explained.

"Golf Involves All Kinds Of Problems" Nussbaum told his wife. "Take the match I had with that Scotch fellow McGregor at the golf club this morning. We're all square at the 17th hole, playing a $2 Nassau when McGregor loses his ball in a thick rough. Naturally I go over and help him look for it, on account I don't want any monkey business from McGregor."

"He can't find his ball, however, and I start walking toward the green. Suddenly he yells after me, 'It's okay, Joe, here was that little ball of mine all the time.' I look back and there I see a ball right on the fairway, all beautifully teed up for a shot to the green, with McGregor happily pulling an approaching iron from his bag. And here, my dear, I am faced with a very serious problem. Just how am I going to be able to break the news to McGregor that all the time I've got his 'lost ball' in my pocket?"

SELF-PORTRAIT OF A SUICIDE—A love of photography and a dislike of mice caused an English photographer in London to rig this trap, in which a mouse took his own picture and his life at the same time. The trap was wired to the camera so that tripping of the trap mechanism also tripped the camera shutter. Here the killing spring is about to come down on the neck of the rodent after its first nibble at the cheese sprung the trap.—Central Press Canadian.

Six Things To Do If You Are In An Accident

1. In case of serious damage or injury, notify the nearest law enforcement agency at once. Summon an ambulance if necessary.
2. Do not attempt to move an injured person unless there is immediate danger of further injury. Keep the crowd back. Give first aid until the ambulance arrives.
3. If the accident occurs at night, warn other motorists by placing lighted fares at least 100 yards in each direction on the highway.
4. Record the following information for later reference—
 - a. Date, time and location of accident.
 - b. Other driver's name, age, address.
 - c. His operator's license number, state and date issued.
 - d. His vehicle license number, make and year.
 - e. Owner's name and address.
 - f. Description of damage to vehicles or other property; nature and extent of injuries to occupants.
 - g. Names, addresses of at least three witnesses.
 - h. Name and address of other driver's insurance company.
5. If there is serious damage or injury, you are required to submit a report within a specified time in most Provinces and states. This should be made at the earliest possible time to make the accident a matter of record, should there be liability involved.
6. If you are insured, notify the nearest agent of your insurance company as soon as possible. It is his job to look out for your interests.

Man Says He Trained Mackerel

WELLINGTON, N.Z.—Tourists returning from remote Marlborough Sounds recently produced a photograph of a man who claims he trained 15 mackerel and $5 cod to swim into shore each night to be fed.

The fish have learned it is show time when W. Ker wades out into the water at nightfall, the tourists said. The fish swim alongside him, raise their heads and wait for the food Ker drops to them.

The mackerel—known locally as schnapper—were which Ker says are easily identified by their markings, vary in weight from six pound "Little Bella" to 24-pound "Hector".

About four years ago Ker began throwing shell fish into the waters of the bay. First to get the idea of the free dinner service were the blue cod. Then about a year ago the schnapper got in on the act.

The fish became tamer each year until Ker could put his hand in the water to feed them. Some months ago he also discovered they would allow themselves to be picked up.

Cool Words For Hot Beaches

Get your suntan gradually, a few minutes each day. Use suntan lotion generously, and wear sunglasses to protect your eyes against the glare of water and sand.

Don't exercise and then go into the water to cool off. Fatigue and overworked muscles can cause cramps.

Wait a reasonable time after eating before going in for a swim. And remember, alcohol and swimming are a poor combination!

Trust only your own swimming ability—rubber beach apparatus is apt to collapse or be swept out to sea. Play safe!

Many a bruised or gashed foot can be prevented you promise yourself not to run in the sand. Buried rocks and broken glass are beach hazards.

Always swim in the presence of at least one other good swimmer in an area patrolled by the life guards. Strong currents or music cramps can overcome even the strongest swimmers.

Conservatively estimate your long distance swimming ability. Long distance swimmers should be accompanied by other good swimmers, or preferably by a boat.

When swimming in a strange area, learn the current characteristics from the life guards present. This precaution will keep you from being caught in strong currents or riptides.

Always make certain of the depth of the water before doing any diving from piers or rocks.

It's both courtesy and good house-keeping to gather up your picnic leftovers and deposit them in the trash barrels provided at most beaches.

Swimming goggles, nose clips and ear plugs are valuable for persons susceptible to swimming infections.

Old-Timers Still Remember Great Gold Rush Of 1898

When recently, demolition men tore down yet another of Dawson City's log cabins they discovered under the floorboards gold dust worth over $5,000. It dated from the days when 45,000 men and women struggled over mountain ridges, shot the rapids of the mighty Yukon River, and clambered through bog and over bare rock in the greatest gold rush in history—the Klondyke Rush of '98.

It slipped through the fingers of rip-roaring men who paid for their drinks in gold dust—men like Dangerous Dan McGrew and Soapy Smith, Siwash Carmack, and the Indian Skookum Pete, Bull Ballantyne, and Charlie Benguelesta and others.

Dangerous Dan lived only in the mind of the poet Robert Louis Service; Soapy Smith was shot down in a gun-battle with law officers; Siwash and Skookum are dead. But Bull Ballantyne and Charlie Benguelesta, and many another oldtimer of the '98 rush are alive, and still looking for gold along the creeks that flow from Solomon's Dome into the Klondyke River.

A correspondent now back in Britain, who recently talked with them, says: "They have a far-away look in their eyes and gold-fever in their brains. Once a hell-raising town, Dawson City is today but a shadow, its log cabins dilapidated, its streets peopled by old men who 'came up the Yukon' fifty-odd years ago in answer to the cry "GOLD!"

At night they meet in the Flora Dora Saloon, where Diamond-Toothed Gertie and Klondyke Katie (now in her eighties) danced the can-can. "I remember Christie Johnson offering Cecily Marion her weight in gold if she'd marry him," says old Charlie Benguelesta. "They stood over there, under their gold letters F-L-O-R-A D-O-R-A."

Ed Andersen, another old-timer, recalls what happened when Swiftwater Gates struck it rich. "He was a dishwasher," he says, "but when he hit pay-dirt he bought a top hat and strutted like a peacock."

Another lucky one was Harry Glave. "Harry came in with one dollar in his pocket and an axe over his shoulders, struck gold, won the Flora Dora over a game of poker, and made a fortune."

Ed himself was both lucky and unlucky. He panned thousands of dollars' worth of gold dust in two days, but somebody hit him over the head with a champagne bottle, since then he has not been able to remember where his claim was!

Such are the stories you could hear in the Flora Dora Saloon, now renamed the Royal Alexander Hotel.

The town's social life centred on the saloon. In a conspicuous place on the bar were scales for weighing gold dust. One bar-room attendant gathered enough dust from the floor sawdust to buy himself a rich mining claim.

Fortunes were lost in gold roulette and faro, and what the gambling-room didn't get was spent on drink and the Royal Alexander Hotel.

Once the fourth largest town in Canada, Dawson's population today is not above 450 men, women, and children, and on every side is evidence of the Gold Rush days in which it still lives.

The fire-engine standing on a plot of land near one of the shops looks like a Thermos flask on wheels—it must be 50 years old. Children clamber over the stage coach in which the fabulous can-can girls, the nun, Mother Mary Mark, and men like Bull Ballantyne and E. K. Clark rode between their cabins and "the city".

Today E. K. Clark lives in a cave on Bonanza Creek, where two men made the strike that set the Yukon aflame in '98. "He's 76, and he hasn't struck it rich yet," said Bull Ballantyne. "And he holds his gold panning on his knees—because his legs are paralyzed."

A big man is Bull Ballantyne. They say he carried a piano over the White Pass on a sledge and floated it up the Yukon River on a raft. Today he does odd jobs and tinkers with a 1917 Ford. Older by six years is the car in which Jim Diamond drives to the airstrip when you leave.

The mining officials drive big, shining American cars; there is a school for their children, a church, a hospital, a few shops, a jetty for the stern-wheeler paddle-boats that chug-chug up the Yukon with freight. And there is a Rural Canadian Mounted Police H.Q., where an old-timer named Jimmy Dines minds the telephone.

But just the same Dawson City lives in the past.

Music Recital Praised By Large Audience

The music recital held on Sunday, June 22, at the Roxy theatre, by the pupils of Alice Buckna was very enthusiastically received by the very large and appreciative audience. The entire performance displayed the musical abilities of all children participating, and the highlights of the event were rendered by Kenneth Perkins, violinist, who appeared as the guest artist.

Still a very young boy, this Calgary violinist shows great promise for the future in his playing. The Bach Air, endorsed by the very popular Cardas, by Monti, left the audience well satisfied and they may well consider Mr. Perkins' appearance in Coleman as an honor and an incentive to all young students of music.

Miss Ann Bodisch, of Coleman, added variety to the program with her rendition of two vocal solos, while the "Mountain Interlude" by the very young people, depicted a western spirit.

Music Pupils of Alice Buckna Pass Exams.

The following pupils of Alice Buckna were successful in the recent Western Board Theory examinations held in the Coleman High School in May.

Grade 1, First class honors, Beverly Bond, Josette Malan-chuk, Darryl Ruymakers, Shirley Libergal, Georgina Mieu-ra, Gail Vincent, Heather Fleming. Honors; Dolores Somsher.

Grade 2 honors; Margaret McDonald, Eddie Vincent. Pass; Sheila Penny.

Grade 3 first-class honors; Helen Morris, Mary Wilson, Jeanne Montalbetti, Delina Celi.

Grade 4 first-class honors; Gloria Smanietta.

Grade 5 honors; Patsy Mc-Rea. Pass; Janice Comin.

Local Man Does Window Displays

"You're Long Gone Cowboy" is depicted on the Coleman Insurance window in vivid colors showing what may be expected during Coleman's action packed rodeo this week.

In support of the annual show, local business men are going all out with extensive paintings to add the flavor of western activity to our daily thinking for this set period. More than that, these fine caricatures are the work of a local man, Raymond Blas, of Sentinel Motors.

Raymond, although a resident of Blairmore, has caught the fever prevalent in town these days and is putting his talents to work to help with the premier show of the Pass. A student of commercial art, Ray has just about completed his two year course with I. C.

S. and the window displays vouch for his training.

Letters to The Editor

Columbus Ohio.

Mr. T. Holstead,
Editor, Coleman Journal.

It has been a pleasure receiving the Journal again. Even though I have been away from Coleman a number of years, I'm still interested in the town and like to read of the happenings to it and to many of the people there. May I wish you every success with the new Journal.

This month will be a big event in our lives... we move into our own home. Our new address will be;

196 W. Brighton
Columbus 2, Ohio.

Once again best wishes to you.

Yours truly,
Olwen Brown.

The Coleman Journal,
Dear Tom, Elidic;

We read the Journal every two week with avid interest so we thought it might be a good idea to send long $1.50 to keep our subscription in good standing for another year. Wishing you every success I remain.

Yours truly,
Jim Cousins.

Castlegar B. C.

The Coleman Journal.

Dear Sirs:

I am sending herewith postal note for $1.50 to cover one years subscription to the Journal.

Please keep the Journals coming right along, as that is the only means I have of keeping in touch with Coleman and its activities.

The Editor and staff are to be congratulated on the splendid paper they are now turning out. I extend good luck and best wishes to the future prosperity of the Journal.

Yours truly,
W. E. Read.

THE WILD "YAHOO!" of the high-riding cowboy....the dull thud of a bucking bronc's hoofs against the side of the corral....the hushed expectancy of the crowd watching this battle between man and horse.... these are familiar sounds at every Rodeo.

But over all events and throughout the entire program, there reigns a spirit of good sportsmanship and fair play which molds upright men.

To the town of COLEMAN, Alberta, which is fostering this spirit of sportsmanship in their Annual Rodeo, SICKS' BREWERIES LIMITED send congratulations. They hope your Rodeo is an outstanding success and that you continue to stage these cowboy contests.
